Captain Todd, of Augusta, the patron of the bill, advocated it on the ground that more teachers were needed, and that those turned out by the Female Normal were superior to any others. President Frayser, of the Female Normal, made a magnetic address, dealing with the far-reaching effects on the State of educated teachers in the public schools, and advocating the bill as a public measure. Mr. Turnbull, chairman of the trustees of the school, stated that the school would not be specially benefited, as they had more students than they could care for with the means at hand, but commended it as a good measure for the benefit of the State at large.

Norfolk Party Found Guilty of Violating Oyster Law.

Rev. J. Addison Ingle's Lecture on China-Big Real Estate Deals Recorded-Burglar Held For Court-Personal Mention.

(Special to Virginian-Pilot.) Suffolk, Va., Jan. 17 .- The J. D. Armstrong Company, Norfolk oyster packers, were found guilty of unlawfully staking in natural oyster rocks, and were given the minimum fine of $50. Justices A. S. Eley, of Suffolk, and M. J. Kilby, of Churchland, who had been hearing the case for two days, reached a decision this afternoon. The argument was opened by R. W. Withers. Judge Brooke talked for the defense and the prosecution was closed by Judge Rawles. The pleading on both sides was ingeniously done.

A NEW OYSTER SURVEY.

A NEW OYSTER SURVEY.

The Armstrong Company rents 216 acres of land in Nansemond river where it is alleged the offense was committed, and there is a question as to the legal boundaries of the old survey. They agreed to have a new survey made. Pending a settlement of boundary lines the court gave warning that the grounds in dispute must not be trespassed on, or the extreme penalty of the law, $1,000 fine, would be inflicted. It is expected that the new survey will be begun in a few days.

There was much interest in the case among oystermen. The prosecution was conducted by an oyster lengue, whose president caused the warrants to be issued. The Armstrong Company is strong financially. Some of the stockholders are wealthy Bostonians. There were over twenty witnesses put on.

THE OTHERS DISMISSED

The warrants against Thomas Payne and William Winder were dismissed. They were boat captains, who were charged with dredging illegally. The prosecution was anxious to have the alleged irregularities stopped, and relief being promised by the court, they did not care to prosecute further.

Newport News, Va., Jan. 17.-Benja min Bates, charged with the murder of Charles Wilkerson, is on trial for his life again in the Corporation Court, the first trial of the case, some six months ago, having resulted in a hung jury.

The entire morning was devoted to securing a jury, but eleven men being securing a jury, but eleven men beling available from the first twenty-three summoned for the purpose.

Colonel J. C. Baker, appointed by the court, is acting as Commonwealth's Attorney. The prisoner is defended by Mesers. C. C. Mitchell and O. T. Martin. It is believed that, without unforseen interruptions, the case can be concluded by Saturday. However, Dr. Hugh Taylor, a most important witness living in Richmond, is not here, in spite of the fact that the City Sergeant went to the Capital City yesterday for him. It is expected to prove Wilkerson's death and the nature of his wounds by this surgeon, who performed the autopsy in the Richmond hospital.

Important new evidence will be introduced in the shape of the clothing worn by Wilkerson when shot. It is expected that this clothing will show powder burns, tending to prove the theory of Eastes when shot, instead of standing some distance away, as testified by some of the witnesses for the Commonwealth at the former trial.

Those who read the papers, doubtless, often wondered if there were any raliroads or trains left in the island, so numerous were these "appetizers."

However that may be, the bridges and the locomotives were left where they would probably have remained had it not been for the speculative instincts of an enterprising Yankee, Mr. Isaac Joseph, of Cincinnati.

Mr. Joseph, being an observant man, did not fail to notice the rapid advance going on in the price of iron and has he noticed the same, he bethought him of the rusty wrecks in the desolate fields of Cubn.

THE CITY'S DILEMMA.

THE CITY'S DILEMMA.

The city has on its hands a $90,000 bend issue, a consulting engineer on paving, elaborate plans and specifications, a howling citizenship yearning for the paving that never comes—a dilemma of interesting proportions.

What is to be done with the bond issue, the engineer, the citizens? This is the question.

The Street Committee, given power to act by the Council and confirmed in all action taken to date, has been tied hand and foot and can neither proceed nor retreat.

The Mayor is unyieldingly opposed to the appointment of Mr. T. Chalkley Hatton as consulting engineer. He also has other reasons why he thinks the specifications should not be accepted. He is firm in his attitude. The rest of the Council is between the devit and the deep sea and doesn't know what to do,
